A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Sachs et al, U.S. Patent 6,331,865 B1.

5. As per claim 1 and 6, 7, Sachs et al discloses a method of facilitating commerce over a communications network comprising:

generating data indicative of a retail web site, contacted from within a directory feature of an integrated shopping service of a client computer, said integrated shopping service comprising a content rendering application, a retail shopping user interface and the directory feature, wherein a list of on-line retailers displayed by the directory feature enables navigation to a retailer on the list of on-line retailers directly through the list and wherein the list of on-line retailers is selected by the user said client computer (figs. 1 and 2; col. 1, lines 35-62; col. 2, lines 59-65; col. 8, lines 24-45; col. 9, lines 10-25, 30-45);

generating a signature of said data using a private key (see fig. 1; col. 10, lines 33-40; col. 14, lines 31-34);

providing said data and said signature to a plurality of computing devices (see fig. 1; col. 10, lines 33-40; col. 14, lines 31-34);

providing to said plurality of computing devices a public key corresponding to said private key(see fig. 1; col. 10, lines 33-40; col. 14, lines 31-34); and providing to said plurality of computing devices a set of computer-executable instructions which performs acts comprising:

determining the authenticity of said data against said signature (see fig. 1; col. 1, lines 35-55; col. 2, lines 34-51); and displaying a link to said web site upon a determination that said data is authentic (see fig. 1; col. 1, lines 35-55; col. 2, lines 34-51).

6. As per claim 2 and 8, Sachs et al further discloses the method of facilitating commerce, wherein said web site vends a content item, and wherein said computer-executable instructions perform acts further comprising rendering said content item (col. 2, lines 34-51; col. 11, lines 55-62).

7. As per claim 3, Sachs et al further discloses the method of facilitating commerce, wherein the act of providing said public key comprises including said public key in-line in said computer-executable instructions (col. 10, lines 33-40; col. 14, lines 31-34).

8. As per claim 4, Sachs et al further discloses the method of facilitating commerce, further comprising the act of restricting access to said private key (col. 10, lines 33-40; col. 14, lines 31-34).

9. As per claim 5, Sachs et al further discloses the method of facilitating commerce, wherein the act of providing said computer-executable instructions comprises downloading said computer-executable instructions to said plurality of computing devices using a computer network (see fig. 1; col. 4, lines 10-20).

10. As per claim 9, Sachs et al discloses the system, further comprising a module that navigates to the web site (figs. 1 and 2; col. 3, lines 54-65).

As per claim 12, Sachs et al further discloses the system, wherein said authentication module uses a public key to verify the authenticity of said signature, said signature being based on a private key corresponding to said public key (see fig. 1; col. 10, lines 33-40; col. 14, lines 31-34).

12. As per claim 13 and 21, Sachs et al discloses a method of providing access to web sites comprising:

creating a list of web sites (fig. 1; col. 11, lines 20-25), said web sites contacted from within a directory feature of an integrated shopping service of a client computer, said integrated shopping service comprising a content rendering application, a retail shopping user interface and the directory feature, wherein a list of on-line retailers displayed by the directory feature enables navigation to a retailer on the list of on-line

retailers directly through the list and wherein the list of on-line retailers is selected by the user said client computer (figs. 1 and 2; col. 1, lines 35-62; col. 2, lines 59-65; col. 8, lines 24-45; col. 9, lines 10-25, 30-45);

providing, to a plurality of computing devices, computer-executable instructions which access said web sites (see fig. 1; col. 10, lines 33-40; col. 14, lines 31-34);

Limiting access to said web sites by performing acts which include:

generating signatures for one or more of the web sites on said list using a key (see fig. 1; col. 10, lines 33-40; col. 14, lines 31-34); and restricting access to said key (see fig. 1; col. 10, lines 33-40; col. 14, lines 31-34); wherein said computer-executable instructions include instructions which authenticate said signatures and which deny access to a web site on said list whose signature fails to authenticate (col. 4, lines 8-12; col. 8, lines 33-45).

13. As per claim 14, Sachs et al, failed to explicitly disclose the method wherein said web site distributes digital content items renderable by said computing devices (see fig. 1; col. 2, lines 34-51).

14. As per claim 15, Sachs et al failed to explicitly disclose the method, wherein said digital content items comprises text (col. 2, lines 28-33).

15. As per claim 19, sachs further disclose the method, further comprising establishing a contract with owners of said web sites (fig. 1; col. 1, lines 63-67).

16. As per claim 20, Sachs further discloses the method, wherein said key comprises a private key and wherein said computer-executable instructions use a public key corresponding to said private key to authenticate said signatures (see fig. 1; col. 10, lines 33-40; col. 14, lines 31-34).

17. As per claim 22, Sachs et al further discloses the data structure, wherein said data structure includes a universal record locator for each web site in said first set (fig. 1; col. 4, lines 50-57)

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

18. Claim 10, is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sachs et al U.S. Patent 6,331,865 in view of Reed et al, U.S. Patent 6,088,717.

19. As per claim 10, Sachs et al failed to explicitly disclose the system, wherein the signature comprises a hash of said data.

Reed et al discloses the system, wherein the signature comprises a hash of said data (col. 109, lines 23-28, 49-52).

Accordingly it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at time of applicant's invention to modify the method of Sachs et al and incorporate the system wherein the signature comprises a hash of said data as taught by Reed et al in order to ensure security.

20. Claim 11 and 23, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sachs et al U.S. Patent 6,331,865 in view of McFadzean et al, U.S. Patent Application Publication 2001/037302.

21. As per claim 11 and 23, Sachs et al failed to explicitly disclose the system, wherein said memory location comprises one or more registry keys.

McFadzean et al discloses the system, wherein said memory location comprises one or more registry keys (0018, 0019).

Accordingly it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at time of applicant's invention to modify the method of Sachs et al and incorporate the system wherein said memory location comprises one or more registry keys as taught by McFadzean et al in order to further ensure security.

Art Unit: 3621

22. Claims 16-18, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sachs et al U.S. Patent 6,331,865 in view of Fransdonk U.S. Patent Application Publication 2003/0165241.

23. As per claim 16, Sachs et al failed to explicitly disclose the method, wherein said digital content items comprises audio.

Fransdonk discloses the method, wherein said digital content items comprises audio (0013, 0064).

Accordingly it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at time of applicant's invention to modify the method of Sachs et al and incorporate the system wherein said digital content items comprises audio as taught by Fransdonk because distributing a wider selection of digital contents will increase the revenue of the service provider

24. As per claim 17, Sachs et al failed to explicitly disclose the method, wherein said digital content items comprises video.

Fransdonk discloses the method, wherein said digital content items comprises video (0009, 0013, 0064).

Accordingly it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at time of applicant's invention to modify the method of Sachs et al and incorporate the system wherein said digital content items comprises video as taught by Fransdonk because distributing a wider selection of digital contents will increase the revenue of the service provider.

25. As per claim 18, Sachs et al further discloses the method, wherein said digital content items comprises software.

Fransdonk discloses the method, wherein said digital content items comprises software (0064).

Accordingly it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at time of applicant's invention to modify the method of Sachs et al and incorporate the system wherein said digital content items comprises software as taught by Fransdonk because distributing a wider selection of digital contents will increase the revenue of the service provider.
